

Identifying Discrimination and Identifying the next steps to take:
Training Session Wednesday 9th December 2015 at COSLA
Conference Centre, Edinburgh.

The Equality and Human Rights Commission is running a free training event on Wednesday 9th December in Edinburgh, aimed at advice agencies and third sector organisations.

The purpose of the session is for you to meet with members of our legal team who will provide an introduction to the Equality Act. The training will explain discrimination by using case studies and look at how to make complaints. This will help you identify potential discrimination and consider what steps your clients could take next.

We will also discuss the Commission's legal powers and look at how Commission staff may be able to assist you in your work.

Please let us know by Wednesday 2nd December if you can attend. Places may still be available after this time, contact us for further information.

Training session details

Who? This event is ideally for advisors and caseworkers working within the advice and third sectors.

Cost? Free.

Where? COSLA Conference Centre, 19 Haymarket Yards, Edinburgh, EH12 5BH

When? Wednesday 9th December 2015.

Time: 10 AM – 2PM. Registration 9:30 AM. Lunch will be provided.

How to book your places? - Send an email with your details to equalityactscotland@equalityhumanrights.com (or phone 0141 228 5925) including any requirements you may have such as access, dietary or communication support. If you book any less than 14 days before the event every effort will be made but it may not be possible to meet your access requirements.

Is this event for you? - If you are unsure if this event is suitable for you, or to discuss, or for assistance with booking, please contact equalityactscotland@equalityhumanrights.com (or phone 0141 228 5925)