FIND OUT WHAT IT'S LIKE LIVING SIDE BY SIDE WITH THE FRACKING INDUSTRY.

Groundswell Rising documents a social movement that sprung forth from a heated debate over fracking and communities being sacrificed for the extraction of another fossil fuel. It's about people taking charge of their communities and not allowing a dangerous industry to move in and harm their ways of life and finding new, healthy energy solutions.

Q&A will follow the screening, hosted by Dr Richard Dixon, Director of Friends of the Earth Scotland and Prof Andrew Watterson, Director of the Centre for Public Health & Population Health Research, and Head of the Occupational & Environmental Health Research Group, School of Health Sciences, University of Stirling.
