REPLICATING REALITY

Modelling in Construction

Panel Discussion Session 1

The world of digital modelling grows dynamically entering various industries with optimisation opportunities. Currently, it plays a significant role in the construction industry where buildings have their digital twins and energy balance is predicted based on modelling. We invited industry specialists to talk about the future of modelling, its impact on the design and current implications on the available and raising technologies.

Panel Discussion Session 2

Innovation scaling is a challenge, especially in traditional industries such as construction with high safety factors and many regulations defining the practices and systems. Our guests will explain how to develop and implement new methods and technologies within the built environment, how to promote sustainable design but also how to approach innovation development from education perspective.
